Pfizer Malaysia Moves into New Office at Bangsar South

Dynamic new office to share, create and inspire towards the next great idea.

Kuala Lumpur, 19 December 2012 – Pfizer Malaysia unveiled its new head office in Bangsar South, promising a creative and inspiring work environment to boost employees' team spirit.

The newly renovated office, on the 9th, 10th and 11th floors of Menara Averis, is designed in an open office concept to enable more flexibility and better communications, leading to a more innovative working environment, engaged teams that focus on bringing values to our stakeholders.

A lion dance troupe ushered Pfizer Malaysia's Country Manager, Angel Choi and her leadership team into the new green building to mark the move, a simple yet meaningful ceremony.

"This move is far beyond a physical one; in fact it's about positioning ourselves to lead - to generate innovative ideas, attract and retain the best talents and to embrace strategic partnerships, all of which help us in our mission to help those who matter most to us, our patients and healthcare professionals," said Angel Choi, Pfizer Malaysia's Country Manager.

"We have come a long way from the small set-up in Jalan 222, Petaling Jaya back in 1964. Today we have eliminated the claustrophobia of cubicles and adopted an open concept to reflect the paradigm shift in the hierarchical system. This transformation is to set the foundation for Pfizer's successful footprint and our presence here in Malaysia for many more years to come," she added.

Angel also pointed out that employee feedback was a vital part of the moving process, having implemented their ideas towards making the environment more conducive for work. From ergonomic office furniture to vibrant colors adorning the office, the new hub, though a 1/3 of the former office, boasts of a Green Office, a much sought after title by many corporations. Bangsar South was the location of choice for its green credentials and Pfizer Malaysia could reduce its carbon footprint contributing to the environment.

The office is equipped with prayer rooms, a designated room for nursing mothers, vibrant social spaces as well as multiple meeting rooms. In addition the Bangsar South address has easy accessibility for most staff and/or public transports as well as an abundance of shops and amenities within walking distance to boast of.
